

HOME @ LEARNING

Issue 8 - 5th June 2020

Update

We may have started to welcome some children back to school this week, but many of our students must continue to do their learning remotely. At this time, we thought that it would be useful to remind everyone of the importance of reading for children's learning and ensuring that they are reading for pleasure everyday.

Whilst it isn't as easy to access books during lockdown, there are a great range of free resources available online to keep children engaged. To help you navigate this please remember to check out our new website called 'Raglan Reads' with many links to different websites and reading resources.

It also has links to authors reading their own books and we have also added some special features such as Millionaire's Row listing all the junior pupils who have read a million words.

Enfield's Digital Library has free ebooks and e-audio books to borrow. Sign in using an existing Enfield Libraries card or join online for free.

Some media may require you to download apps such as OverDrive, RBdigital and BorrowBox. These are available free from your devices app stores.

Phonics

Reception to Year 2

We have added some video links to the Home Learning Website to help parents and pupils practise the sounds, which will help with reading and spelling. They are organised in phases.

The Letters and Sounds website also has lots of interactive games which you can play. These all link with the programme that we follow in school. As well as this, we mentioned Phonics Bloom last week which is worth exploring.

Audiobooks

Have a look at the range of free, high-quality audiobooks Audible are offering, including Harry Potter, Alice in Wonderland, Jules Verne's Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea and The Wind in the Willows. Another great website is Lit2go, which has an extensive range of free audiobooks which also come with PDFs for children to read along with the narrator.

Daily News

Of course, children need to have a varied diet when it comes to reading, and newspapers can be an interesting way to introduce them to more non-fiction.

Discussing the news with children not only helps them share their thoughts and feelings, but also encourages them to develop empathy with others. In addition, it prompts them to become responsible citizens and to help them develop the skills they need to tell real news from fake.

As well as the fantastic First News (which has been available for free each week as a digital download), I would recommend taking a look at The Day Home, which is a free, daily newsletter for parents and guardians at home with children.

Get Musical!

If you haven't already, why not visit the music home learning page to try out June's music activities?

A special mention to the following pupils who did one of the May's activities of making their own musical shakers: Emily K, Tyler-Jay, Gwilym and Angahard, Leo P, Lena and Suzanna, Ignazio, Amelie S, Chloe A. Thank you for emailing the Music Team with your video/photo of your musical shaker.

For May the KS2 composer of the month's (Villa Lobos) challenge was to write a poem inspired by a journey. The winner is Shayna F. Your chocolate prize awaits you.

Check out the June's KS2 challenge on the music home learning page (Deadline is 1st July.)

A reminder to all pianists (grade 2 and above) - the deadline for submitting your entry for the EMS piano competition is 21st June
